Alton Brown's Last Bite Farewell Tour is Coming To Bellingham for a Night of Food and Fun

Bellingham, WA — Television personality, author, and famed foodist Alton Brown announced his national theater tour that will visit more than 60 U.S. cities in 2025. Alton Brown Live: Last Bite will launch February 13, 2025 in Melbourne, Florida before making its way to cities across the country, including a stop in Bellingham, Washington at the historic Mount Baker Theatre on Sunday, March 30

During Alton Brown Live: Last Bite, the famed foodist reflects on his decades in food media, presents several of his favorite culinary mega-hacks, sings some of his funny food songs, and in general offers a culinary variety show the likes of which human eyes have never seen. VIP ticket holders will be treated to a Q&A session in the theatre as well as a signed copy of Brown's newest book.

Brown, who has more than eight million social media followers, has created some of the most popular and successful live, interactive culinary variety shows ever. His "Edible Inevitable," "Eat Your Science," and "Beyond the Eats" tours performed in more than 200 cities with more than 550,000 fans in attendance. Now, Brown has cooked up a buffet of new surprises for this new tour show,

Brown's tenth book, a collection of essays and ruminations, Food for Thought, will be published by Gallery Books in February 2025, just in time for the tour launch. Before performing to sell-out crowds around the country, Brown started his career directing TV commercials when he got the crazy idea to go to culinary school and reinvent the cooking show. The result was "Good Eats," an irreverent, science-forward program with Brown as its star; 256 episodes aired across 16 seasons. He also hosted the iconic programs "Iron Chef America," "Food Network Star," and "Cutthroat Kitchen." Among his various mantle candy are a pair of James Beard awards and a Peabody. He lives in Atlanta with his wife, the designer Elizabeth Ingram, and a trio of nefarious canines.
